In the light of these worries, President Macron, keeps deploying extra efforts, to appease the situation and keeps on the edge, making phone calls to his East European counterparts. This is why, « The President of the French Republic (Emmanuel MACRON) spoke by telephone with the President of Georgia Ms. Salome ZOURABICHVILI, then with the President of the Republic of Moldova Ms. Maia SANDU, this Saturday, February 26, 2022. These two meetings were an opportunity to take stock of developments in the situation in Ukraine and the responses of the international community to Russia's aggression.

During the two exchanges, the President of the Republic reaffirmed his determination to support our partners in the eastern neighborhood of the European Union against any attempt at tension and destabilization. We stand with Moldova and Georgia to defend their sovereignty and security. They continue to follow developments closely and remain in contact. In this respect, the President invited President ZOURABICHVILI to Paris for a meeting at the beginning of next week. » Source: Elysee

Given the security situation in the region, the airspace of the Republic of Moldova is closed from February 24, 2022, 12 noon, until March 4, 2022. This measure is likely to be renewed. Source: French Ministry of Foreign Affairs
